

KIDNAP WIFE'S OWN STORY BLAMES 'BRAINS' MAHAN

SNATCH PLANS LAID 5 YEARS, SHE SAYS

I knew what it was and where it came from, I don't know where it was split.

You know Mahan had planned a kidnaping for a long time. He studied all the cases; the Bremer, the Lindbergh case and all of them. He said he had corrected all the mistakes other abductors had made and intended to make his the perfect crime. He said he was leaving any loopholes to get caught.

ONLY THREE IN IT

These were only Mahan, Harmon and Mahan's wife in on the "deal."

We left Salt Lake City around April 1, and went to the northwest when Mahan promised Harmon a job. When we arrived we waited and waited, but Harmon never got any work. Then I learned of the affair.

I do not know who wrote the ransom note. I didn't learn a word about the case until the Saturday morning I told you about. After that Mahan and Harmon kept pretty quiet around me.

There was a lot of things I've learned later that these things don't add up.

I left Spokane (Wash.) on the train around June 1 and arrived in Ogden (Utah) on June 2, when I went to see my grandfather. I was terribly frightened and I remember I put my arms around him and said, "Granddaddy, I'm scared, so awfully scared."

WIFE FACES MUSIC

Harmon met me later and we were around Ogden and Salt Lake City until they detained me in the store. I had bought a lot of things during those few days; dresses and trinkets for the kids—you know mother has 14 children and I wanted them all to have something.

Well, I guess I'm in for it and will have to face the music. If I could have stopped Harmon before he got into it I would have, but it was too late when I found out about the kidnaping.

That was all wrong about them arresting Harmon on the street. They caught him burning some of our ransom bills in our house on South State street. When the officers arrived the store was still here and the officers took the ashes of the bills out and took them along.

G-Men's Guns On Waleys

Copyright, 1935, by International News Service.

Tacoma, Wash., June 23.—Belief the "Epicure" alias William Mahan, northwestern bad man, will attempt to rescue his youthful partners in crime, Harmon and Margaret Waley, from the custody of federal officers was expressed here today.

And the G-men are prepared for any attempted jail delivery.

Following the arraignment of the Waleys on kidnaping and mail extortion charges here, the young husband and wife were secretly transported by a squad of G-men last night to a jail far from Tacoma.

The Waleys are held now in the city prison at Olympia, the state capital, 33 miles away.

G-men and U. S. deputy marshals, armed with machine guns and revolvers, are keeping a careful watch over the couple, who secretly admitted participation in the celebrated Weyerhaeuser kidnaping case.

The Waleys—cocky, coral-topped Harmon, 24, twice an ex-convict, and an "admirer" of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, and Margaret, 19, his 19-year-old wife—arrived here last night aboard a specially chartered airplane from Salt Lake City in the custody of G-men.

Twenty minutes after their arrival the Waleys were standing before U. S. Commissioner H. C. Fitch on the third floor of the federal building.

A hushed crowd listened as Fitch read the charges against them—of abducting nine-year-old George Weyerhaeuser and collecting $200,000 for his release. The charge that they sent them to prison for life.

King Up and Around Again

By International News Service

San Francisco, King, June 23.—King George VI, under orders to take two weeks' rest while he recovers from an attack of bronchitis, today was once more officially strong to be up and around.

GOODWIN'S ANGER

Drastic criticism of Chelsea district court was voiced today by Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, in suspending the license of Daniel J. Mulane of Chelsea.

Goodwin set June 15 for Mulane to show cause why his registration should not be revoked.

The registrar said: "Mr. Mulane was acquitted in Chelsea district court on charges of operating under the influence of liquor although several police officers testified that Mr. Mulane was under the influence of liquor and that his car hit three different autos in a series of accidents."

HOSE TO SPEED SENATE'S NRA STOP-GAP RESOLVE

By International News Service

Washington, June 13.—A deadlock between House and Senate that threatened to delay passage of the new extension resolve for a skeletonized NRA until after Sunday when the present NRA set up expires, apparently was averted today.

Following a White House conference of President Roosevelt with Democratic House leaders, Chairman O'Connor (D.) of New York, of the House rules committee, predicted the lower Chamber would reluctantly accept the Borah amendment to the extension resolution.

This amendment was voted into the measure by the Senate early today after an all-night filibuster. Returning to the Capitol from the White House, O'Connor and Speaker Byrnes indicated the resolution would be brought up for consideration tomorrow, with a possibility that it may reach a vote late in the day.

HOUSE LEADERS CALLED

Chairman Doughton (D.) of North Carolina, of the House way and means committee, who also participated in the White House conference, immediately summoned his committee to pass upon the modified Senate measure.

Vigorous objection had developed among the House leadership after the Senate resolution was received. The objection centered about the Borah amendment, eliminating from the new NRA structure all anti-trust law exemptions which were included under the old NRA. The resolution adopted by the Senate provided:

1.—Extension until next April 1 of the NRA structure.

2.—Repeal of the President's power to prescribe compulsory codes.

3.—Exemption of anti-trust law application to business and industry coming under the new voluntary agreements which replace codes; goes only so far as to permit necessary organization in the agreements.

Under the new structure, price fixing and loss leaders are "out" according to expert interpreters.

The resolution was adopted after Senator Huey P. Long (D.) of Louisiana, at 4:50 A. M., was usually gave up a fight to kill all NRA extension measures or compel acceptance of a provision which would have required Senate confirmation of all federal employees paid $600 a year or more.

Long yielded to the blind Senator Schall (R.) of Minnesota, who had his speech read by a clerk, and after that, New Deal leaders quickly brought a final and favorable vote.

The NRA extension legislation, creating for nine months duration an extended shadow of the former Blue Eagle, was passed by a record vote of 41 to 13. Only four Democrats, Byrd, Connally, Gore and Long voted against it.

In his filibuster, Long approached the all time filibuster record, 28 hours, 25 minutes, set by the late Senator "Bob" LaFollette of Wisconsin.

The "Kingfish" spoke for 19 hours, 55 minutes.

"ROMBUS SPEECH"

The Senate and crowded galleries got what Huey's enemies called an omnibus speech during the filibuster.

Long told stories about his uncle that brought roaring laughter. He said that, tired of a wayward life, the uncle was ready to be baptized. As the preacher prepared to immerse him in a sea and Kingfisher's wife dropped out of his pocket.

His wife, on the banks of the river, said out to baptize him, because he was lost.

"And then," said Long, "this young son saw a queen, a jack and 10 of spades drop out."

"And the youngster shouted: 'Don't stop the preacher. If uncle can't win with that hand, he can't win with anything!'"

The "Kingfish" then told the Senate how to make Hotpotters cheese dressing. He said it should be made of lettuce, and only used lettuce at that. He made mouths water when he told, in detail, how to cook chicken pie.

"Don't ever boil a chicken gizzard," he roared as the galleries roared and Senator Capper (R.) of Kansas perked up his ears.

"Always broil it."

"POT LIKKER" RECIPE

Another time Long gave recipes for cooking "pot likker" and oysters.

Clip these recipes from the record tomorrow," he advised senators. "Take them home and try them on yourself. Don't ask your wife to try them. Do it yourself."

In the end the weary Senate adjourned at 7:21, eastern daylight time after deciding that when it meets again on Friday the social security measure, a major item in the Roosevelt program, will be debated.

A very different appearing girl from the smiling young bride she was in pictures taken a year ago is the Mrs. Margaret Thulin Waley of today. She shows plainly the effects of the strain she has been under since the arrest of herself and her husband, Harmon M. Waley, for the Weyerhaeuser kidnaping. (Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

Waleys in Salt Lake City, was surrounded when the young couple entered piles of "hot gully." Owen P. Hughes, assistant U. S. attorney who had drawn up the complaints, likewise was surprised, as it had been thought the Waleys were ready to "take the rap."

Hughes and Connolly went into a conference and then Hughes requested that the commissioner set $200,000 bail each on the exterior charge. Commissioner Fitch acceded to the request and the couple smilingly replied they were "unable to meet the bail."

Ill Nurse Improves

Still seriously ill from blood poisoning received while treating patients in the City Hospital, Mrs. Virginia Tolman, 21, student nurse, was reported slightly better today.

Loving Pair—Not Wed—On Honeymoon

Love came to the Army Base today.

Replied mated—if not legally wed—a loveless couple chattered endearments to one another and defied efforts of the Puritanically-minded to part them.

The honeymoon repeat was wholly of imported sweetmeats—Belgian barley malt and South American lima beans.

The man—or at least the male—came ashore from the steamship Springfield, on which he was one of 500 monkeys temporarily set on the dock while the ship was fumigated.

The love of the lady he won when the steamer City of Corinth docked with another cargo of animals. Having won his own liberty by escaping from his cage, Mr. Springfield conferred the same gift of freedom upon Miss Corinth by clambering aboard her steamer and aiding her to freedom.

Longshoremen, who, as good Bostonians, were sadly shocked by the unchastened alliance, so far have only been made to look foolish in their efforts to put the pair behind bars again.

'BORGIA' Death Plot BARED

SOUGHT KILLER WITNESS SAYS

By Associated Press
Rockville, Md., June 13.—John (Garry) Carnell, Rockville bartender, testified today that Mrs. Anne Lyddane had engaged him to procure a killer to assassinate her husband.

Mrs. Lyddane, tall blonde secretary of the Farmers Banking and Trust Company, is on trial on charges of conspiracy to murder her husband, Francis (Ston) Lyddane, and Mrs. Josephine Beall, wife of a garage man.

Reciting the bizarre account in a casual manner, Carnell said Mrs. Lyddane approached him in the tavern where he worked and asked him to procure a man to kill her husband.

He said he brought John M. Bland of Washington to the Lyddane home and introduced him to Mrs. Lyddane as a man who would supply the service she wanted.

Carnell said he was having a drink in the kitchen of Mrs. Lyddane's apartment and overheard a conversation between Mrs. Lyddane and Bland on the subject of assassination.

The witness added that on another occasion he brought another Washington man, Harry Thomas, to Mrs. Lyddane as a man who might do the job.

"Three or four days later Mrs. Lyddane told me she gave Thomas $500 and now had him tied up."

CLIPPER PLANE Lands in Hawaii

Alameda, Cal., June 13 (AP).—Ending the first leg of its pioneering flight to Midway Island, the giant Pan-American clipper seaplane landed in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, at 8:57 a. m. Pacific Standard Time, today, radio reports to headquarters here said.

The clipped time was 23 hours and 38 minutes, bettering the time of the hop two months ago by 41 minutes.

MARCOMBES, French Official, Dies

Paris, June 13 (AP).—Philippe Marcombes, minister of education, fell dead today in the Elysee Palace as he entered the council chamber for the First Council of Ministers since the cabinet of Premier Laval was granted extraordinary powers.

Marcombes had just entered the large room where President Albert Lebrun was to preside at an important meeting. He suffered an apoplectic stroke.

WADSWORTH Sails Saturday

Elliott Wadsworth, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and former assistant secretary of the Treasury will sail Saturday for Europe where he will observe business and social conditions.

Wadsworth will attend a meeting of the International Congress of the Red Cross in Paris on June 24-25. It is the American vice president of the organization.

WORK OF A CRANK ADDS TO PARENTS' WOE

By Associated Press
New York, June 13.—Vague, incoherent postcards, obviously the work of a crank, today continued to plague the grief-stricken parents of five-year-old Jackie Kaul, who disappeared a week ago.

The messages were signed Lester C. Kite. One read: "My Dear Friends—You will find my boy alive or dead. Look in all olive groves Long Island East Side cellars East 45th street and Second avenue."

"You will find my boy today," a second card said. "Look in all olive West Side waters boy falls down on sand East End avenue 78th street and 86th street."

John Kaul, the child's father, clung to his belief that Jackie was seized by a woman with frustrated maternal desires.

Divers were expected to continue descents into the East River to search for the boy's body.

Jackie disappeared from the fashionable Sutton place section on the East River.

'Too Late, Girls, He's Mine'

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 13.—Lieut. Henry A. Sebastian went to trial today before an Army court-martial at Fort Hamilton on the charge that he married Harriet Hagman, Vanities dancer, in 1931, while he was still a student at West Point. The trial opened behind closed doors.

Mrs. B. F. Mitchell, an aunt of the Army officer, said at Galesville, Tex., that Sebastian was not married until June 12, 1934, the day of his graduation as a cadet.

Marriage while a cadet is a violation of Army regulations. If convicted Sebastian faces possible dismissal or reduction by several files on the promotion list.

Sebastian was a football star at that point. His wife sued for a separation two months ago, and the court ordered him to pay maintenance on information given in that suit.

Burgin will be sworn into office tomorrow night at a quiet luncheon. There will be no inaugural address.

Burgin's former mayors will attend. One is former Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams.

Burgin stated he would make no announcement of office changes in the various departments until next week.

West Pointer Navy Helps On Trial for Amos Train Having Wed For Skull Tilt

Provincetown, June 13.—The navy today came in the aid of Amos Kukul, 46-year-old sculler who is challenging the steamship Dorothy Bradford to a July 4 race in the harbor.

Aboard the U. S. destroyer Tullman, at anchor in the bay, Kukul discovered his 1934 motor trainer, now Chief Petty Officer Denis McCarthy, who aided him in winning the National sculler title in 1933.

Under McCarthy's direction, the aged Town Crick defied his Puritan costume for rowing trunks and began working out for the great sculler.

Kukul, born in Bohemia and a Puritan by adoption of his father, a chum of commerce, is training on a Popeye diet of spinach.

Four pounds of spinach at a sitting, fortified by a gallon of sea-buckthorn juice, maintained his youthful vigor.

On the holiday the Town Crick plans to meet the excursion steamer as she passes Wood End light and race her the four miles to the town dock.

OLD FLIM-FLAM GAME COSTS $60,000

Details of an international film-flam game which sent its elderly victim once to Sweden and again to France, were revealed for the first time today by Boston police.

The victim was Andrew G. Olson, 78, of Gilman street, Somerville, former South End lodging house proprietor. He went all the way to Stockholm to draw more than $60,000 out of banks and later handed a total of $70,000 to the swindlers, police said.

Disclosure of the swindle was made today as Olson prepared to go to St. Petersburg, Fla., to testify against one of the two men who first fleeced him of $920 while he was on a vacation in the south early this year.

Olson will testify against Philip Gregory of Marion, Ill., arrested at a Florida airport on January 18, as Olson was about to board a plane and come to Boston for $1800 as "bail" in a case he was told he would have to be held as a material witness.

This case grew out of the staged arrest of a new-found acquaintance of Olson by two bogus police officers, confederates of the man arrested on a disorderly conduct charge. Already Olson had parted $220 with the two bogus officers as "bail."

He was approached later by another man in Palm Beach, and introduced to still another, who said he had a "sure thing" on the horses.

The two new friends pooled their money, totaling $2500, to bet on a horse, and one of them came back and reported the horse won and that they would collect nearly $300,000.

When they asked Olson if he would like to get in on another bet, Olson said he could round up about $50,000, but that $50,000 of it was in banks in Stockholm.

They promptly advised him to go to Stockholm and draw out his money—which he did.

SLEEP AWAKES

DOCTOR FIGHTS TO KEEP GAIN

Robert McCullough, 12-year-old victim of the sleeping sickness, was conscious today at Boston Psychopathic hospital.

It was the fourth hospital to which he had been taken during his seven-weeks of unconsciousness.

When he first dropped off into the death-like coma which is the first tangible symptom of the disease, he was taken from his home, 47 Stetson street, Weymouth, to the Weymouth hospital.

There Dr. Morris H. Millen, of Weymouth, fought for the lad's life. But Bobbie remained unconscious, and nothing would wake him.

From Weymouth Hospital, doctors sent him to Wellington Hospital in Quincy, and from there to Beth Israel.

At Beth Israel Bobbie showed his first encouraging sign, opening his eyes dazedly and glancing about him. He could remember nothing of his long sleep of coma, but he could recognize his parents.

But today he had been transferred again, to the Psychopathic Hospital, where it is hoped his emerging from the shadows may be built up a strong constitution.

Attendants at the hospitals where he has been under treatment, however, were extremely doubtful of his chances. Very few sleeping sickness sufferers have ever been saved, they say.

But Dr. Millen continued to try.

NORMA'S IMPATIENCE

Disappointed in the delay of her parole, Norma Brighton Milton went in Dedham jail today.

"I thought that I would be out of here by now," she told a guard as she returned from her recreation period with other women inmates in the jail yard.

"Do you think it will come today? I'm all packed and ready to leave at a second's notice. I'm so nervous waiting, I feel like screaming."

Guards said Norma for the first time since her commitment has this week changed her schedule so that instead of remaining inside her cell as she formerly did until 10 a. m., she now was rising at 7 o'clock.

After breakfast she leaves with four other inmates for a game of ball in the jail yard.

DRIVER DEAD AT WHEEL, TRUCK RUNS WILD

With a dead man at the wheel, a truck ran wild today in the market district, grazing other trucks, narrowly missing many pedestrians and seriously injuring a 71-year-old man.

The driver, Carlo Buonanno, 53, married, of Dorchester avenue, collapsed over the wheel while driving the truck through Richmond street.

He was still slumped over the wheel when the wild dash ended against a building on Revere avenue. Police found he was dead.

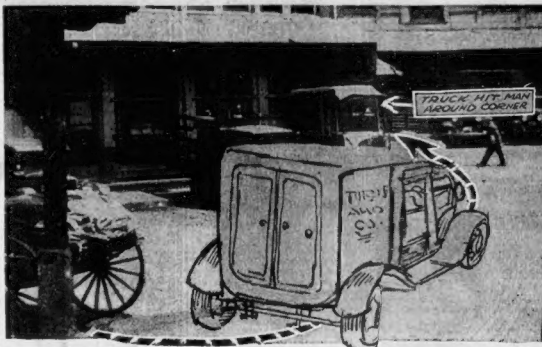

The injured pedestrian was Joseph Weisburg, Chambers street, West End. His right shoulder was dislocated and he was severely cut and bruised.

Needham police at 4 o'clock this morning found Sibley A. Freeman, 34, Harvard graduate and member of a Boston brokerage firm, dead in his car in Central avenue.

The car had gone off the road and was hanging partly over a steep 25-foot embankment. It had struck and slid past a cement post. A cigarette was still burning in Freeman's hand, indicating the accident happened but a few moments before police discovered it.

Police were puzzled because there were no bruises on the dead man but Dr. Frederick A. Stoddard, medical examiner, said death was presumably due to internal injuries.

Where Death Rode in Truck

Starting from the pole at the left, Carlo Buonanno drove the truck toward Revere avenue in Richmond street in the market district today. Hidden from a stroke when he had gone but a few feet and the truck plunged on as is shown by the diagram. With the dead man at the wheel, the truck hit and seriously injured Joseph Weisburg of Chambers street, West End. (Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

BANNED BY IL DUCE

Rome, June 13.—The Italian government press bureau today expelled David Darrah, Roma correspondent of the Chicago Tribune. Darrah and his wife were forced to leave immediately.

The reason for Darrah's expulsion was given as the writing of anti-fascist articles.

It was said Darrah had attacked the financial structure of the country and the allegiance of the people to the Fascist regime.

The correspondent's expulsion came shortly after the press bureau had banned the New York Times from entering Italy owing to a disapproving editorial entitled "Baldwin and Mussolini."

repondent to be expelled from Italy since March, the others being two Germans and an Austrian.

The Foreign Press Association local organization of foreign newspapermen accredited here, has its matter under advisement.

The editorial which brought about the ruling against the Times was printed after recent speeches of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin of Great Britain and Benito Mussolini of Italy.

VT. PUPIL SAYS NOSE BROKEN

Vermont, Vt., June 13.—The testimony of a former inmate of the State Industrial School that he had suffered a broken nose as the hands of one of the school's officers went into the record today at the third day of hearing of charges of mismanagement at the institution.

Harry P. Edwards, discharged cottage master at the school who brought the charges, has testified to instances of alleged cruelty to boys and girls and several former inmates have given similar testimony.

Burlington youth today informed the governor's committee, which is conducting the hearing, that he was struck on the nose by an officer last January and that nose was broken and deformed.

The accused officer followed the youth to the stand, admitted striking him, but denied in one detail. The incident, he said, occurred in December.

How to make the "GUEST TEST"

Do your friends like your liquor? Find out with the "Guest Test!"
After all, your standing as a host depends on the whiskey you serve. Give your friends the "Guest Test." Offer them their choice of Seagram's Crown and any other whiskey; then notice carefully which they choose.
If they prefer a cheaper—or a more expensive whiskey—than Seagram's Crown—buy that other whiskey.
But if most of them choose Seagram's... then you can be sure that you have found the right whiskey. Seagram's Crown whiskies are America's favorites—first in sales—blended the Seagram way for better taste. The difference in price is slight—the difference in taste is great.

NORTH CHINA INVADED BY JAPANESE

By International News Service

Peiping, June 12 (INS)—Japanese troops surged south towards the "demilitarized" North China zone today as China, silently passing the word of Japan's latest ultimatum, prepared at least passive resistance to extension of the Japanese state from the Pacific to Inner Mongolia.

Eight hundred troops, the first contingent of 2000 replacements, landed in Tientsin, and the remainder will arrive tomorrow and Saturday.

Bluejackets disembarked from destroyers and set up three guns on the waterfront. Barbed wire entanglements were strung at strategic crossings in the Japanese concession of Tientsin.

Reliable Chinese reports said a detachment of several hundred Japanese troops arrived yesterday at Kuppelow, important mountain pass and gate in the Great Wall, from the interior of Jehol.

U. S. Marines 'Sit Tight' In China's Trouble Area

By International News Service

Peiping, June 12—United States Marines in North China are "sit tight" in the present crisis.

It is not known whether they will be involved in the Japanese military activities," General P. M. Rixey, commander of the United States Legation guard, said today.

Five hundred marines are stationed at Peiping, and 80 infantrymen at Tientsin.

Refugees from a battalion of 1000 men distributed between the two cities, and France has 1500 men similarly divided. Italy has 200 men at Tientsin and 250 at Peiping.

Indicative of the calmness of American residents in the troubled zone was the departure of 40 Girl Scouts for their summer camp in the hills 13 miles west of the city walls. They are led by Mrs. Nelson T. Johnson, wife of the American minister.

Japanese Ready To Fight It Out With All China

Tokyo, June 12—Warning that Japan will "fight out" its disputes with China if necessary, the vernacular press today echoed a rising tide of indignation over brief detention of four Japanese officers by Chinese officials in Chahar province.

General Sung Cho-Yuan, Chahar commander, was held responsible for the arrests, which were made allegedly because the officers lacked passports.

Japanese military experts were said to be watching for a possible outbreak of anti-Japanese activities in the Yangtze river valley, indicating Japan's "unfettered" measures might eventually be extended to a territory considered South of the wide North China area now involved.

U. S. Envoy in London Talks Over China Crisis

By Associated Press

London, June 12—The situation in the Far East was understood to have been discussed by Ambassador Robert W. Bingham of the United States and Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary, when the former called at the Foreign Office today to greet the new Foreign Secretary.

It was said that they agreed that the Chinese attitude of non-resistance, thus far expressed, provided any possibility of action by the United States or Great Britain.

CHICOPEE ERA Bond Issue Blocked

Chicopee, June 12—An $80,000 bond issue to continue the ERA was blocked by one vote in the board of aldermen meeting. The job of 1400 welfare workers were held up as a result.

PEABODY WILL AIDS CHARITIES

Five charitable institutions benefited today by the $100,000 will of Rosamond L. Peabody of Milton, filed in Dedham court.

General Francis Peabody, her husband, was left $100,000 and all real estate in Newton, Hyde Park and Canton.

Each of her three sons-in-law, R. Nason Hamill of Dedham, Clarence V. Mitchell of New York City, and Monique W. Proulx of Canton, was named executor.

Each of the grandchildren will receive $2000.

The will provides for $2000 gifts to the Children's Hospital of Boston, Massachusetts and to the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, House of the Good Samaritan, New England Peabody House for Cripple Children.

The Industrial School for Cripples and Deformed Children gets $1000. The residue, reported to be over $100,000, is to be left in trust, and the income to be paid to Rosamond, Martha and Sylvia, daughters.

Surety Hearing

Although there will be no meeting of the legislature today, the committee on Insurance will hold a public hearing at 2 this afternoon on Governor Curley's proposal to reduce the cost of automobile liability insurance.

7 OTHERS FACE PLOT CHARGE ARREST

Charles O. Williams, 35, a Court Street attorney, was arrested today in a Back Bay hotel on three charges involving the defrauding of insurance companies.

Police, armed with seven warrants, expected to bring in several other prominent Boston professionals.

The charges against Dr. Shuman involved alleged conspiracy against the Travelers' Insurance company and the Globe Indemnity company from 1922 through yesterday.

In superior court before Judge Oliva, all three men pleaded not guilty and were each held in $1,000 for trial. Bail was furnished.

The authorities said that among the alleged members of the fraud device were several who are serving sentences in New Hampshire for offenses in that state.

The case will be ready for trial when two other persons have been brought in, inspectors said.

'TYPING DEATH' WAS ISSUED

By International News Service
Atlantic City, N. J., June 12.—Any child born to parents who suffer from hay fever, hives and other allergic afflictions may be considered a candidate for "typical death."

This warning was issued today by Dr. George L. Waddell, of Detroit, in a paper prepared for the section on pediatrics at the convention of the American and Canadian Medical Associations.

"Typical death" is the sudden and mysterious strangulation which claims the lives of infants and small children. The strangulation is caused by a swelling of the thymus, a gland located in the chest of children about which little is known at present. The gland atrophies at an early age.

Dr. Waddell said clinical observations have led to the view that "typical death" is identical with allergic shock (violent reaction to substances harmful to the average person, such as hay fever from inhalation of pollen, or hives from eating certain foods).

Dr. Waddell said that at present measures of prevention of typical death are more important than attempts to treat the malady.

"It is well to guard these children (of allergic parents) against exposure to weeds, flowers, tree powder, sudden chilling, over-heating, and ingestion of food or drugs to which they are sensitive," he said.

TALKS ON TONSILS
Asserting the public is receiving considerable misinformation on tonsil matters, Dr. Edward Clay Mitchell of Memphis urged rigid control of public educational programs by physicians of high standing.

One prompt result of such a policy would be elimination of the mass removal of tonsils, "done without reason and often produce a state of harm," he declared.

Dr. Mitchell asserted opinion has changed concerning tonsils. Long thought to be superfluous matter, whether infected or not, the tonsils are now suspected of having a function, perhaps as barriers against infection, he said.

"DETECTIVE WORK"
Successful "medical detective work" in running down clues to the exact location of blood clots, which it is hoped would reduce the death toll from heart disease, were described today to the delegates.

The originality of this research on the mechanism of the heart was recognized by the award of a medal which the scientific exhibit to Dr. James B. Roush, her husband, Dr. P. C. Roush, and Dr. J. G. Fredrick, all of Syracuse University School of Medicine.

'Marry Girl With Job,' Say Boston Lassies

PHOOEY, CLAIM
OTHER MISS WORKERS

By PEGGY DOYLE

It's not the sentence ending with a preposition but the proposal ending with a preposition that is disturbing Boston's liberal calm these hushed June nights.

Long before that University of Nebraska professor advised his galled, gangling graduates to "marry a girl with a job," the romantic couple in Suffolk and adjoining counties was being blighted by just such practical hocus-pocus.

And there's some as assert that Cupid, stout fellow though he is, must be cozier with diamonds and emeralds at the almost incredible situation.

There are other, attractive young things, too, who are nothing doing with looking the first year—and the second and the third, but why go on—in the budget.

The surest way to take the bloom off marriage? Agnes Comella, 1331 Dorchester avenue, Dorchamster, remarks, "is to concentrate on romance to the exclusion of horse-sense."

Miss Comella, comely, young, Tremont street saleswoman, is unmarried at present.

Don't Crowd, Boys!
But, should a young Lochnivar come smack out of that Western University straddle, who would love in his heart, the light of ambition in his eye and the practical suggestion that she keep her job and he'd leave one, she'd accept him in a minute.

"If a man loved me and was ambitious, I'd be willing to hold down my job and work with him fifty-fifty towards the founding of our ideal."

"And even if he couldn't get job immediately, I'd be willing to carry on in the meanwhile."

Black-haired Ida Frutkoff, Dorchamster young woman employed by Homer's, Inc., Tremont street jeweler, as a bookkeeper, is another career-woman who seems contentual bliss in the professor's ungilded life.

Says Miss Frutkoff: "Very few young people could have been married in the past six years if Misses and Misses hadn't both held down jobs."

1000 Times No!
On the other busily typing hand, Miss Barbara Sprague, 174 Winthrop road, Brookline, Metropolitan Theater secretary, writes a staccato negative.

"No, no, a thousand times no. No man is ever going to marry me for my job. When I marry it will be for love and a home provided by the man of my choice."

And Mary Marcelline, 44 White street, Belmont, earnestly accords that motion.

Mary, gilded waitress at the Pettis Lunchroom, 41 Mason street, thinks that what was good enough for mother is good enough for her.

"How would I be taking care of the six children I'd want and Arthur Brisbane urges for married contentment if I had to continue dealing 'em off the arm?"

"No, I'll be an old-fashioned housewife. The career-wives have their luxuries."

"Anyway, even a thousand on a plate would taste like turkey and fish if you had love and each other."

Two-year-old Karl Letache of Norfolk st., Dorchester, is recovering today from injuries received in a 15-foot fall from his bedroom window.

FR. COUGHLIN'S UNION IS GIVEN N. Y. CHARTER

By International News Service
Albany, June 12.—The National Union for Social Justice, headed by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, today files papers of incorporation with the New York Secretary of State, thereby extending its influence into the most heavily populated state in the country.

New York headquarters are to be in Albany, according to the papers, which were approved by Supreme Court Justices John L. Walsh of New York and Ellis J. Slattery of Albany.

Five directors of the corporation are Father Coughlin, Marie Rhodes and Dorothy Rhodes, all of Royal Oak, Mich.

The five purposes of the corporation listed are:

"To extend the knowledge of American principles and ideals and to reduce these principles and ideals to practice."

"To uphold and defend the right of private ownership of property within the United States, but always subordinate to the inalienable supremacy of human rights."

"To protect the masses of the people within the United States, against the greed and domination and exploitation of powerful vested interests."

"To promote the common welfare by securing for all of the people within the United States, irrespective of race, creed or station in life, genuine application of the principles of social justice."

"To do any and all lawful things in furtherance of the above objects and purposes."

2 Girls Missing

Boston police are still seeking two missing girls today although two brothers, reported missing from their homes, are back safely.

The girls are Annie O'Brien, 15 of Blackwood st., Back bay, and Mary O'Connor, of Westwood st., Rosbury.

FIRST SNOW In Natal, Africa

Durban, Natal, South Africa, June 13 (AP)—Snow fell here today for the first time in the memory of living men and several lives were lost in the strange mixture of weather.

Inhabitants of this city, noted for its hot, humid climate shivered in the cold waves. Railroad and highway communications were wrecked by a 12-inch rainfall.

Several bodies were sighted in resultant flood waters.

Drowns Fishing

Marlboro, June 13 (AP)—George Alexander, 27, of Marlboro, was drowned in Fort Meadow pond today when the canoe in which he and a companion were fishing overturned in the section of the pond known as The Narrows. The other man, Jeremiah Trotta, was able to swim to shore.

Court Asked to Rule 'Illegal' Marriage Valid

A wife who wanted her marriage declared legal—and a husband who declared it was illegal and wanted it left—presented a difficult problem to Judge Monahan in Middsex probate court today.

Twenty-one years old and attractive, Mrs. June Diehl of Everett said she was married at 17 to John L. Diehl of Dorchester.

"He walked out on me in March of last year, telling me his lawyer said the marriage was no marriage at all," she testified.

The Everett said Judge Monahan said that she met Diehl in 1917 at a social gathering and married him before she learned he was married.

She said that the first Mrs. Diehl then divorced him, naming her as the "old woman."

Two weeks after the divorce, she and Diehl went to York, Me., he said, and were married, after he had stated in applying for a license that he had never been married before.

Under Massachusetts law, Diehl was supposed to wait two years before remarriage.

When Diehl was called to the witness stand, he testified: "Yes, I knew it was illegal, and she knew it, too."

2 Lynn Boys Admit Murder
By Associated Press
Portsmouth, N. H., June 13.—Leo Gagne, 18, and George Piccoli, 20, Lynn, Mass., youths accused of killing a woman in a Salem, N. H., tavern holding, interrupted their trial today to plead guilty to murder in the second degree.

Judge Warren L. James, of the Rockingham County Superior Court, sentenced Piccoli to serve from 20 to 40 years at hard labor and George to 12 to 18 years term, both in State prison.

The trial had been in progress since Monday.

Mrs. Florence Foley, 40, of North Andover, Mass., was fatally wounded April 18, at the Pony Inn, Salem, N. H., during an alleged holdup as she sought to flee the dining room.

The bullet which killed Mrs. Foley passed through a wall as she ran into the kitchen.

Stolen Dory Motor Reappears

June 13, 1934, was an unlucky day for Charlotte Riggs of Fayette street, Wollaston. Somebody stole the outboard motor of her dory.

June 13, 1935—today—was lucky. Somebody returned the motor. First with the help of police, and then alone, her father, Warren Riggs, kept up the hunt for the thieves. Recently he obtained clues.

Today he was told by telephone that the motor had been left during the night in a vacant lot near his home in Newport avenue, Wollaston. He found it there with a card attached, addressed to him. Riggs still hopes to catch the thieves.

Brookline Boys And Girls Conduct Circus

By BETTY ALDEN

NOT TO BE OUTDONE by their mothers and sisters, who devote so much effort and time to volunteer social service work, the young pals of Arthur and Leslie Clarke, children of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Clarke of Warren street, Brookline, have clubbed together in a charitable effort to raise funds for the Brookline Friendly Society.

Entirely unguided by their elders, these youngsters, all between the ages of 8 and 12, have made elaborate preparations for the circus they are staging this afternoon on the lawns of the Clarke residence.

Master Delbert Jackson, son of Mrs. Delbert Jackson of Brookline, has rigged up a troupe of clowns who will perform the last word in circus tricks. . . . Summer Eaton, son of Mr. Charles Eaton and Thomas Swain, son of Dr. and Mrs. Loring T. Swain, have constructed a shooting gallery and side shows to delight the public.

Jean MacHale, daughter of Mrs. Jeanette MacHale, Nancy and Kingsbury Browne, Jr., children of Mr. and Mrs. Kingsbury Browne, and Harris Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thompson, have also aided in the plans and assure us in the true circus barker fashion that there will be "fun for young and old so come one, come all and bring your families" . . .

Debuts at Milton Club Luncheon

AFTER RIDING ALL over Milton yesterday we finally arrived at the Milton Club and found its brick terrace and secluded lawns, warm and welcoming and well worth the journey. . . . Small tables were spread underneath tall old trees and under green striped awnings. . . . Strains of popular melodies played by Harvard's Gold Coast orchestra floated out through the high French doors of the clubhouse. . . . and mingling with the strains of music were the gay laughter and bright chatter of the enchanting group of debutantes gathered at the tables.

Fresh and animated, thoughts of school behind them, and full of eagerness to face the festivities of their first year out, this attractive group of girls looked like one flower after another dotting the wide green lawns.

The occasion was the luncheon at which Nancy Ames and Charlotte Young made their official bows to society.

A sweet, natural girl with reddish blonde hair, Miss Charlotte Young made her debut in a lovely gown of natural color line lace with a wide sash of chaste rose and brown silk and a large linen straw hat.

Miss Nancy, beautiful and a bit reserved, presented a lovely picture in her garden party frock of white chiffon with panels and caplets of chiffon printed in a riot of pastel flowers. . . . Her only jewelry was an antique gold hand bracelet which she wore for sentiment's sake, just as it had encircled her mother's wrist when she made her debut.

Mrs. Stephen Ames and Mrs. Edward L. Young, mothers of the guests of honor, were both attired in printed gowns with dark blue accessories.

New Bouquets of Debutantes

THE GRANDMOTHERS of both debuts arrived in time to kiss them as they stood in the receiving line. . . . Mrs. Richard Knight, grandmother of Miss Ames, came from Providence, where later in the season she will entertain for the new bud. . . . Miss Charlotte's grandmother, Mrs. William Quincy Wales of West Newton, joined in the celebration and had as much fun as the debuts.

Miss Margaret Young, a sub-sub deb sister of Miss Charlotte, was flitting about to get a first hand glimpse of what is in store for her future.

Outstanding among the new bouquet of debuts were Betsy Dall, a winsome dark eyed little bit of femininity, who looked very sweet in a dark blue dress dotted in tiny white dots and a large blue sash with a big bunch of red cherries on its trim. . . . Barbara Proctor, whose black hair and eyes were a perfect foil for the bright crimson of her hat and gilet. . . . Janet Grey, in a white angora knitted suit with navy blue accessories.

Margerie Gallison was bewitching in a lilac boucle suit with matching capelet. . . . Jaunty and smart are the Vose twins, Betty and Helen, who are slated for debutante honors in the autumn. . . . Their swagger yellow flannel suits were identical but they varied their costumes with different colored hats.

Martha Rogers, who is a representative type of fine, wholesome American girl, was warmly welcomed at one of her first social appearances since her return from a winter abroad.

Simplicity and Smartness

ELIZABETH MARION, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner S. Marion of Concord, was simplicity and smartness personified in a vibrant red and white print with a white hat. . . . Elizabeth Webster, smooth, slim and dark, appeared very poised in a navy shawl suit.

The blonde unruly locks of Erina Reggio were confined under a sweeping white hat. . . . She looked very pretty in a tomato colored silk dress with a short cape.

There were many other lovely debuts present. . . . too numerous to mention, but all radiant and bright, looking forward to the day when those magic words, "member of the Junior League and Vincent Club" will give them the assured social position of which all this partying and festivity is just the prelude.

"SINGING IN THE RAIN," these fair young debts arrive to honor a newcomer to their ranks at one of the numerous debutante festivities of the past week. Occasionally the sun falls to share brightly upon society's parties and frilly summer togs have to be discarded for smart and sturdy tweeds such as worn by Miss Barbara Brewer, Nancy Cassels and Carolyn Pierce.

Proparvulis Finale

THE PROPARVULIS CLUB will close its season of gay dances at the Anderson Country Club, Monday evening, June 24.

Miss Grace Dalton, vice president, has appointed Miss Hazel Donohue as chairman and she is being assisted by the president, Miss Doris Cahill, officers, directors and the following committee: Mary McDonald, Mary T. Goodie, and Marguerite Barry.

New Club Formed

To make for greater sociability among the Junior set of the Parkway district through the sponsoring of seasonal dancing parties, a number of social minded young ladies and gentlemen have created the Cotton Club.

The committee composed of the Misses Marguerite Kiley, Grace Connolly, Marie Cronin, Dorothy Mullenwey and Ann Keeney, and J. Allan MacLellan, Edna A. Pienan, John P. Moynihan and Daniel Urban Kiley will conduct the club's premier in the form of a dancing party at the Sandy Burt C. C. on June 14.

Those attending this inaugural party will be signing their names in the charter book be known as charter members.

Society Notes

MRS. HENRY P. MCKEAN and Mrs. Alvin F. Sorrell of Beverly Farms are visiting New York and are staying at the Weylin Hotel.

Deb Makes Luncheon Bow

MANY OF THE NEW debutantes who sat at the small tables on the terrace of the Milton Club yesterday sipping their after-luncheon coffee, did the same thing this afternoon, but at a different debut party and upon a different terrace.

The occasion was the presentation luncheon of Miss Dorothy MacAusland, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. Russell MacAusland, of MacAuliffe street. The place was the MacAusland summer home Overfield, in Dover.

Miss MacAusland, who was graduated from Beaver Country Day last week, chose a dress of flowered silk. Among those present were Sally Brown, of Backing Ridge, N. J., a house guest at the MacAuliffe; Dorothy Dow, Frances Lowell, Margaret Wight, Nancy Wellington, Isabel Gardiner, Janet Forbes, Marjorie Byron, Ann Soule, Constance Moore, Nancy Ames, Long, Martha Billings, Joan Chapman, and Jean Morse.

Potpourri at the tea table will be Margaret Carol Denning, president of the alumnae; Miss Mary Donovan, vice-president; assisted by Ellen Rogers of Newton, Margaret Carter Dillon of Uxbridge and Mrs. Edward McGinnery of Newton and Grace Hawley of Conn.

Rev. Augustine Hickey of Cambridge, professor at Regis College, will be the guest of honor.

Horse Show Costume

New York, June 13 (U.S.)—Mrs. Richard Carver, society sports-woman, observed the spirit of the day at the Tuxedo Horse Show by wearing a riding costume of plaid velvet, twill breeches, mannish shirt and tie and derby.

Cohasset Plans Drag Hunts

TWO MORE DRAG HUNTS are planned by the Cohasset Hunt Club, before the hunting season comes in a close.

One will meet Saturday morning and the last will be held next Monday morning.

After the season closes the Hunt Club members and their guests will have a last rollicking get-together at a picnic which will be held on the Norwell estate of Dr. Arthur R. Kinney.

Among those who have enjoyed the early Wednesday and Saturday morning runs for the past month are Mrs. Francis Gleason, Mr. Hugh Bancroft, Miss Jane Bancroft, Mrs. Frances MacLellan, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. James, Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Sawyer, Mr. Richard Sawyer, Mr. Richardson White and Mr. Hans Wanders.

Also in this group of riders whose pink hunting coats add a note of dash and color to the Cohasset landscape are Miss Charlotte Curtis, Dr. Arthur R. Kinney and his three daughters, Betty, Allison and Margaret, Mr. P. Har- old Tolman and his two daughters, Virginia and Joan and his son Frederick and Mr. Leslie Cliff.

Fox Will Star Baxter in 'Hard to Get'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Los Angeles, June 13.—The last days of Arthur Somers Roche, eminent novelist, were sad. But ill though he was, he managed to write almost up to the day of his death. His widow, Ethel Roche, herself a writer, set by his side and helped and encouraged him, caring for him day after day. His last story, "Hard to Get," has been purchased by the Fox company for Warner Baxter.

The sophisticated Roche mystery adapted by Stephen Avery Morehouse and Charles Grayson, will star Warner Baxter. With him will be Mona Barrie as his leading lady and Harry Lachman as his assistant. The picture has been assigned to Winfield Sheehan to direct in this exciting drama.

Conventions assembled to talk on Warner Brothers business will be told that Louella O. Parsons "Lagunaire," a story by Harold Buckley and Roy Chanslor is a coming Warner event.

Rings "Lovers of a Bengal Lancer" created so much of a sensation in the theaters throughout the country, anything that deals with legends in faraway countries is money in the box office.

Warner's story deals with the French Legion and the Riff campaign and it has big dramatic moments which will lend themselves to pictorial situations.

Cecil D. DeMille will be in New York just at the time of the big powwow with Erskine Caldwell, Henry Herzberg and John Ottens, the president of Paramount. He is taking his picture, "The Crusades" and for a showing. C. D. has one more picture to make for Paramount under the new regime.

What will happen nobody knows. Jesse Lasky, no runner goes, will join up with his old company, Paramount, when his contract with Fox expires in October. He was at one time vice-president of the company.

George Raft at Met; 'No More Ladies' Is State Offering

Another of Dashiell Hammett's screen stories, "The Glass Key," comes to the Metropolitan theater tomorrow, with George Raft, Edward Arnold, Claire Dodd, and Rosalind Keith in the featured roles.

The stage show will feature the California Collegians' Band, and Freddie Craig, Jr., mental wizard who is called "The lad with the index brain."

Political and underworld skull-duggery forms the background for "The Glass Key." George Raft is the time-worn and sympathetic role, as henchman for Edward Arnold, boss racketeer and protector for his daughter, played by Rosalind Keith.

"No More Ladies," co-starring Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery, comes to the Loew's State Theater tomorrow.

This new M-G-M film production further boasts a cast which includes Franchot Tone, Charlie Ruggles and Edna May Oliver. The story is adapted from the play of A. E. Thomas, and concerns the tactics which a modern woman employs to hold the interest of her wandering husband.

Edward H. Griffith has directed this film, and its production was in the hands of Irving Thalberg.

A Charlie Chase comedy, selected short subjects, and the current Hearst Metronome News complete the new bill.

With a special preview screening tonight at 10 o'clock, "Hooray for Love," new musical film featuring Ann Sothern and Gene Raymond, will begin its regular engagement at the Keith Memorial Theater tomorrow.

The new double feature at the RKO Keith, Boston beginning tomorrow is "The Healer," with Ralph Bellamy and Karen Morley, and "People's Enemy," featuring Preston Foster, Lila Lee, and Melvyn Douglas.

BAER ATTACKED AT WEIGHING-IN

AUSTEN LAKE

Moonshine Madness At Revere's Greyhound Saucer

LAST NIGHT BY THE pale moonlight, and under the hard glare of overhead lamps, one of Florida's favorite haunts moved into Revere, where 15,000 stormed the pari-mutuel windows to wager out-patients' money on the running greyhounds.

The rivets in the grandstand steelwork were hardly cooled. The last tap of the carpenter's hammers had hardly died when the impatient mob stamped into the painted scene and wrestled for the privilege of showing its earnings through the pari-mutuel windows.

Except that there were no thin-stemmed tapers, the scene was not unlike the one that had been played out in the winter tourist homes, where men and women stood on each other's insteps and studied the drop-store lights on the totalisator or rooted their money-dogs with the gambler's prayer.

It was a toymen scene, peopled with workaday folk, a stager setting built to a miniature scale of the Rockingham horse plant, where men and women stood on each other's insteps and studied the drop-store lights on the totalisator or rooted their money-dogs with the gambler's prayer.

THOUGH SOME OF THE crowd came in curiosity to see the little wooden bunny with its light-bulb tail and jerky hop, and to watch the hounds spew out of their cells, the money-players, few of whom had ever witnessed a dog race, needed no instruction. After a short period of bashfulness, they snatched their favorites from the printed form charts with an easy familiarity born of horse experience, and pocketed their losses with the same grim patience.

There was the same circular snooping for hot information that marks the chronic horse sucker, the same all-eyed fixations frisking the mob for undesirable, the same sprinkling of moochers and unattached ladies with their air of furtive hauteur.

And, shortly before midnight, when the distant hurdy-gurdies of the Revere boardwalk were stopping their squeaky blurs, the crowd went home, poorer by 15 per cent of its working capital, but richer in experience.

The little bit of Florida dimmed its lamps and left the scene to the silvery moon and a yellow patch of window-light where the Woodland auditors were counting the cash.

One Best Bet

THE BRAVES' INTERNAL troubles are becoming borsome business. Now starts the journalistic scramble to dope the club's buyer.

Being as close to the picture as any, I am sticking to my original premise that the Adams-Wetmore entry is the one-best-bet to mop up the mess on or before August 1.

I say this knowing that President Ford Trick has nabbed from four outside syndicates, one of whom is said to be Major Francis Parnell Murphy, Nashua shoe tycoon, who already has a stake in the club to the mentioned amount of $50,000.

The National League, as a whole, is disgusted with the whole fantastic mess of which the club's ownership details have not yet been told. Though, in company with other newsmen, I know them, they will not be told by me.

Rule of 13

JIMMY BRADDOCK, THE Cinderella glove fighter who, tonight, as fortune's mouse, is nibbling the cheese of opportunity—if that is not too much language for so small a matter—has faith in the mystic No. 13.

Today is June 13. Max Baer is the 13th heavyweight champion in lineal descent from John L. Sullivan. James Braddock has 13 letters in his name, as has also Luke Shadreck, where he trained.

And the odds, by nightfall, may be 13 to 1 in Baer's favor, as item Jimmy has probably overlooked.

Then, there are also such superstitions fables as that no champion has ever successfully defended his title in the Long Island pit.

All this Gotham's glib burghers are reciting today, though cautious critics are muttering something about Baer's roundhouse right hand.

Peter Pans of Horse Track

AS A FREE SUGGESTION for a Rockingham old timer's feature, the track might make some of its veteran horses, like Flag Bearer, 8-year-old brother of My Dandy, a horse which was thrice sent to the firing squad and each time reprieved and nursed back to usefulness; Buckle, a 12-year-old, who won his race recently; Mink, and Judge Schilling, 10.

A twelve-year-old race horse, still under the saddle, is like a 40-year-old major league ball player still in the batting order. They are the Rabbit Maravilles of the race track.

Long-Shotter's Delight

ONE OF THOSE MOONSHINE dreams that sometimes come true on the race track and make long shot players the optimists that they are happened at Washington Park, Chicago, yesterday in the third race.

A five-year-old bay mare, running its second race since June of last year, and named Printemps, which is French for Springtime, won and paid $500.24 for $2.

This is not high for pari-mutuel payoffs! On May 17 of last year, Frey Cook paid $910 at Hawthorn to the only two stud holders who were down on his muzzle.

Then there was Old Kickapoo, which won at Fimlico last January, and had nearly a ticket on its mouth. Track sharps figure it would have paid $3000 for two.

Lefty's Rising Market

THE SUN IS SHINING again in Lefty Grove's night. Reborn confidence has made his world sweet once more.

Lefty, on the strength of his last two games in Detroit (3-1) and New York (6-0) feels he has recaptured the wizardry that was in his arm two years ago.

Red Sox stock soared correspondingly. With Lefty at his best, the club's finishing position rises from possible fourth to possible second.

Alabama Pitts Waits On Landis

ALBANY, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—Ed. win G. "Alabama" Pitts, one week ago an obscure prisoner known only to a few sports fans, today relegated himself to the background as a nationwide controversy raged over his professional baseball status.

Pitts, a right-handed pitcher, played at Pitts, Pa., was been declared ineligible to play on or before August 1. The National League, as a whole, is disgusted with the whole fantastic mess of which the club's ownership details have not yet been told. Though, in company with other newsmen, I know them, they will not be told by me.

Occasionally he practices with the Albany International League baseball team, which signed him as a player only to have the contract voided, but for the most part he sits in his hotel room. The few of assistance and low pay, he is reportedly overlooked as he waits for the word from Landis.

He hopes to be able to play his own case and win the right to do the thing I can do best.

He is bewildered by all the fuss stirred up over his eligibility and leaves most of the talking to Johnny Evers, general manager of the Albany club.

NIGHT GAME

At Russell Field

Another night game is staged at Russell Field, North Cambridge this evening. The newly formed Nighthawks, co-captained by Doc Gautreau and Freddie Marquie, meet the New York Colored Giants, to be called at 8:45 o'clock.

The portable lighting equipment which the Nighthawks are using was hauled over the road for tonight's game from Stamford where the Gautreau-Marquie combination played last evening.

"I don't care whether he eats cake or not," says champion Max Baer, who, like a true title holder, goes to bed early to be ready to defend his crown against Jimmy Braddock at Long Island Bowl, N. Y., tonight in a 15 round bout or LESS.

15,000 Attend Dog Race Opening

Dog racing, that much maligned sport, made its debut under the pari-mutuel betting system at the Wonderland Park track in Revere and was an amazing success.

Fully 15,000 spectators will attest to this fact.

Society was very much in view of a number of the choice boxes. Betting played a part in the success of the sport as $40,000 was handed to the winners that ranged from $2 to $20.

No doubt the handle would have reached much greater heights but the public was playing them safe, evidence of which was shown on the muzzles when place and show dogs paid little in proportion to the front money on winners.

The severest critic could not have found anything wrong with the evening's program that listed 10 races. Close finishes were order throughout.

The crowd was ably handled, and the only congestion was the horde of state inspectors getting into each other's way. (They outnumber the spectators, it seemed.)

Why, even Manager Russ Murray actually blushed when handed a floral wreath by Mrs. Lou Smith as part of the opening ceremonies to add a touch of modesty to dog racing here.

Since the night's racing was over, and as the mutual handles began to swell, it became evident that it will not be long before race fans in these parts will be handicapping the bounds as well as they do the horse, for favorite began to show on the board, and favorites that came down to win, less.

"Swifty," the mechanical rabbit, received his first official ride 1/2

EPITAPH IN 5TH WILSON'S BEST

Two Two LASKY Games in Cambridge Would Bet ON J. J.

AND HE OUGHT TO KNOW

As told to Eddie Muller, San Francisco, June 13 (US)—As the last man to have fought James J. Braddock, I have been asked to tell what I think of tonight's championship match between Max Baer and Braddock in New York.

Personally I disagree with those who think Baer has a soft touch in Braddock. I believe I'm qualified to say this because I know all about Braddock's ability.

From all reports Baer will enter the ring at 6 or 7 in 3 favorite. If I were a betting man I'd have a lotta more down on June 21.

Jiminy is a clean living man. He can take a good punch, as has been proved in the past, and he can punch hard with a left hook as well as with a right to the head or body.

If reports are true that Baer has a soft touch, I don't think he'll be himself in the same spot as he was the night I fought Braddock.

In training my left hand, which is my best, I've found that the glove is a lot heavier than the hand.

Many have said that Baer will be a good fighter. He's got a good left hand, and he's got a good right hand.

FLOYD GIBBONS' PAGE OF THRILLS AND MYSTERY

"The Open Grave"

Adventure of Somerville Girl in Cemetery at Night

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO, EVERYBODY:

And greetings and salutations, MISS EVELYN PERRY, of 2 MOUNT VERNON STREET, SOMERVILLE, for the story of your night of terror.

FLOYD GIBBONS

Gosh! If you folks don't stop telling me spooky stories about graveyards I'll be afraid of even being buried in one.

Let's tell this one as fast as we can before my hands start shaking. Question: "And now, Miss Perry, where were you on the night of February 21, 1928?"

Answer: "I was in a graveyard." Question: "A graveyard? What were you doing in a graveyard at night?"

Answer: "The graveyard was near my home and by cutting through it I could save a mile on my walk from town. I had been attending a dance in town and had stayed later than I had permission to stay so I left the dance alone and in my hurry to get home entered the graveyard."

Question: "Did you continue through the graveyard?"

Answer: "No."

Question: "What did you see there that caused you to change your mind?"

Answer: "I saw a—"

Wait a minute! I object. We haven't any proof that Miss Perry saw a ghost, so let's just review the evidence for the Adventurers' Club jury and let them judge.

The evidence I have here before me shows that Miss Perry entered the graveyard in a careless manner. She was thinking of the good time she had had at the dance and not a thought of the supernatural passed through her romantic mind.

This state of mind is important. It leaves out the supposition that the young lady might have been "seeing things" because of an active imagination.

The night was a typical February one. A light snow lay on the ground and dark wintry clouds made the way difficult to see.

But Miss Perry was not bothered by that. She had taken this short cut through the graveyards many times before and was completely familiar with it.

She had, on this night according to her own testimony, traversed two-thirds of the graveyard and was approaching the farther gate when she saw something that caused her to stand transfixed with horror!

A white figure moved slowly toward her along the path to the gate!

The figure, Miss Perry says, was approaching her and as she stared terror-stricken unable to scream because of a tremendous lump in her throat she heard distinctly the slight METALLIC RUSTLING OF CHAINS!

Miss Perry was now beside herself with horror. She saw that she could not reach the gate without passing close to the spectre in her path.

She decided, therefore, to return the way she had come—even if it was a mile farther. But she was afraid to turn suddenly and run so she kept facing the Thing and backed slowly away.

At this point, boys and girls of the jury, you'd better take a deep breath.

You may think this is written flippantly but when you hear what happened next you'll understand how terribly serious it really was.

As Miss Perry walked blindly backward she tripped and fell RIGHT INTO AN OPEN GRAVE!

I told you to take a deep breath! Well now, take another one and make it a good one because the WORST IS YET TO COME.

You may even doubt that a young person could go through such an experience and keep her reason but one did and it's true. All right, have you got your breath? Then listen.

Miss Perry was NOT ALONE in that open grave!

As she felt a COLD HAND CLOSED ON HER WRIST!

Zowie! The dead in that graveyard are still talking about the scream the young lady let out and, if they could have seen her, they would have been even more amazed.

She wrenched loose from it all wind and jumped like a frightened ghost right out of the grave!

Through the stones and out the gate toward home she went at break-neck speed and that long extra mile seemed only a few short steps—no dead did she travel! Her clothes were torn and muddy but she crept into bed and her head under the covers.

Not until the next afternoon did the shadow of her first night's weird story. And what on you suppose her first day? Why the unfeeling man just poured with laughter!

You see, Evelyn Perry had had a second story that day which drove all of her first story with her daughter! Now that my heart is a little quiet I'll tell you the facts. Here they are in order!

First: The loud drunkard's white coat ran away after breaking his chain. (It was this coat—not a ghost—that Evelyn saw.)

Second: Said drunkard, while following his ghost into the graveyard, fell into an open grave and was too stiff to climb out. He was found there the next morning.

Third: Evelyn fell into the same grave and aforesaid T. D.—like a drowning man grasping a straw—grabbed her wrist!

Well, (this is the fact in the case as you see it) all true after all. Evelyn doesn't say whether her hair turned white or not but I know a certain party Adventurer who would have gone green and stayed right in that grave! How about you?

And now, boys and girls, now that we've got Evelyn's goal—I mean ghost—let's acquit her and call it a day. I'll be back tomorrow with "Six Snakes Below."
